The idea is to have the other background characters in orange/brown to pink/purple colour ranges. Characters fresh from Life arrive Orange and as they become at ease with the idea that they are passing into the After Life with their loved ones they turn to Pink. The lead character and Cupid are Yellow and Light Blue so that they never really fit in with either colour scheme.

This is in the ball park. Except the chairs need to be a fairly neutral light stone colour. A red character on a red chair is not going to show up well on screen. I'm not sure why there are two winged Angel / heart themed chairs... What happened to Death's chair? The sphere isn't solid, it's more of a volume with transparency towards the edges. It's not a globe. Think of it more like the Virtual Death Star used to show the Rebels how to execute the dead run. So it would glow. The sky wants to be a range of colours, with a gradient up to a star-like upper atmosphere. I want to get god-rays in there too, perhaps with a little sparkling particle effects in the air around them.

You just put a big grin on my face!
Although the challenge will be how to make it look like something a little different from Disney... not that Disney is a bad thing, this is really nice. I'd just like to have a think about how we show something unique enough to get click throughs. Perhaps a volume of particles to add a magical aura to the scene. Great work though Gill. Very nice, I'd click on this!
